

iPhone 15

People in the world are hyping over the new Apple iPhone 15. It is cool and all, but it is not worth your money. People have already found problems with the iPhone 15 like the back cracking more easily and that it overheats faster. Also, why would you just spend another $1000 on almost the same phone? Let us look at the stuff not inside of the iPhone but on the outside of it.

With the iPhone 15 Apple has sure made a lot of upgrades to the looks of it. Adding new colors like yellow, blue, green, and even pink. They also replaced the normal back with glass. It is nothing special like bulletproof glass, it is regular glass. So now that means the iPhone can break even more easily after dropping it on the sidewalk. People on wide social media platforms like TikTok and YouTube have been testing this and they are not surprised by the outcome. The iPhone 15 back cracks more easily than any other iPhone Apple have made. Who would want glass shards in the back of their hand?

Even Apple has realized problems with the iPhone 15. Apple announced that they found problems with the overheating feature that will not let people use their phones when their iPhones get too hot. The problem with this feature is that the iPhone overheats now when someone is on an app for too long. An example is when people are on Google Maps the phone will automatically stop. This has been happening to multiple new iPhone 15 users.

Lastly the price of the iPhone 15 is unreasonably expensive. Each year the iPhone is around $1000, and people still buy the new iPhone each year. The iPhone 15 is cool but look at the negatives of it. If you have an iPhone and you want to buy the new iPhone 15 you can no one is trying to stop you but think to yourself, do you really need the upgrade?